Backbench Business

International status of Taiwan

Blair McDougall

That this House, recalling that United Nations Resolution 2758 of 25 October 1971, which established the People's Republic of China (PRC) as the only legitimate representative of China to the United Nations (UN), does not mention Taiwan, notes that UN Resolution 2758 does not address the political status of Taiwan or establish PRC sovereignty over Taiwan and is silent both on the status of Taiwan in the UN and on Taiwanese participation in UN agencies; and calls on the Government to clarify its position that UN Resolution 2758 does not establish the One China Principle as a matter of international law, to state clearly that nothing in law prevents the participation of Taiwan in international organisations and to condemn efforts made by representatives of the PRC to distort the meaning of UN Resolution 2758 in support of Beijing's One China Principle and the alteration of historic documents by representatives of the PRC, changing the name of the country from Taiwan to Taiwan, province of China.

Freedom of religion in Pakistan

Jim Shannon

That this House notes reports of deteriorating religious freedom situation in Pakistan; expresses its concern over the alleged widespread forced conversions and human rights abuses of minority religious groups; deplores the lack of action by the Pakistani government, which represents a serious violation of Article 18 of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights; and further notes that the arrest of opposition religious leaders by the local authorities has led to condemnation both in Pakistan and further afield.

Ms Polly Billington
Josh Fenton-Glynn
Uma Kumaran

John Lamont

That this House declines to give a Second Reading to the Terminally Ill Adults (End of Life) Bill because the House's procedures for the consideration of Private Members' Bills do not allow for sufficient debate on and scrutiny of a Bill on a matter of this importance; recognises the importance of having a fully-informed debate and vote on assisted dying, which should be subsequent to an independent review of and public consultation on the existing law and proposals for change; and considers that the review and consultation should be informed by an independent assessment of the provision of palliative care for adults who are terminally ill.
