Until 10.00pm (Standing Order No. 9\(3\))

That this House, while welcoming the repeal of the Safety of Rwanda (Asylum and Immigration) Act 2024 and certain provisions of the Illegal Migration Act 2023, declines to give a Second Reading to the Border Security, Asylum and Immigration Bill because it perpetuates the previous Government's approach of criminalising those seeking asylum in the UK; because the Bill fails to repeal the entirety of the Illegal Migration Act 2023, including harmful provisions excluding victims of slavery and human trafficking from essential protections; because it introduces new offences that risk the prosecution of innocent asylum seekers; because it restricts the Scottish Government's ability to protect victims of trafficking and modern slavery as provided by the Human Trafficking and Exploitation Act (Scotland) 2015; because it fails to establish a Scottish Visa Scheme to support Scotland's demographic and economic needs; because it disregards the significant economic, social, and cultural contributions of migrants to the UK; and because it is not accompanied by Government plans to establish safe and legal routes for those seeking asylum.

Nigel Farage

Richard Tice

Lee Anderson

Rupert Lowe

James McMurdock

That this House declines to give a Second Reading to the Border Security, Asylum and Immigration Bill because it wrongly operates within a legal framework for control of the UK's borders constrained by the UK's membership of the European Convention on Human Rights and because the Bill is not accompanied by Government commitments to return illegal migrants on the day that they arrive and to deport all foreign nationals who are currently detained in UK prisons.

That this House, while welcoming measures to create new immigration criminal offences, declines to give a Second Reading to the Border Security, Asylum and Immigration Bill, because an effective removals and deterrence arrangement is fundamental to stopping illegal immigration, but the Bill abolishes laws passed under the previous Government to ensure removals, and abolishes laws passed under the previous Government to ensure a deterrent by restoring illegal migrants' ability to claim indefinite leave to remain and British citizenship; and because the Bill contains no proposals to limit legal migration, nor limit the eligibility criteria for settlement and citizenship, which means that the Bill will lead to increased illegal and legal immigration.
